- b. DLA Logistics Management Standards Office memorandum, January 13, 2011, subject: PDC 450, Revises DLMS Supplement 856S, Shipment Status, in Support of RBI, available at: <http://www.dla.mil/j-6/dlms/eLibrary/Changes/proposed.asp>

4. BACKGROUND: The DLA Disposition Services (formerly Defense Reutilization and Marketing Service (DRMS)) is a worldwide presence within the Department of Defense, with disposal specialists in 14 foreign countries, two U.S territories, and 39 states. DLA Disposition Services mission is the execution of disposition solutions for excess military property. The Reutilization Business Integration (RBI) project will replace the DRMS Automated Information System (DAISY) by integrating DLA Disposition Services business processes within the DLA enterprise suite of applications, including the Enterprise Business system (EBS) and the Distribution Standard System (DSS).

a. Scenarios for which the transaction is used [NOTE: DLA Disposition Services Field Offices use DSS; the DLA Disposition Services Inventory Control Point (ICP) uses EBS]:

1) A DLA Disposition Services Field Office receiver has the discretion to “containerize” items that he/she thinks can be marketed so that items turned in by Disposal Turn-in Document (DTID) numbers can be reutilized/sold together. Items identified by DTID numbers can be placed in containers if they have the same DEMIL Code, controlled inventory item code (CIIC), etc.

2) The DLA Disposition Services Field Office will generate a Container Identification (ID) number for the items identified by DTIDs placed in the container, so that when the DLA Disposition Services ICP receives a DLMS 527R Receipt (MILSTRAP D6A, D6B functionality) for each item, the Container ID will also be on the receipt for each DTID number. EBS will track each DTID number that is in the container. The container and DTID information will be sent to the Reutilization, Transfer, and Donation (RTD) Web so that the items identified by DTID numbers can be marketed as part of the container. The customers have the option of either requisitioning the whole container or certain items from the container. A separate requisition is sent for each item in the container regardless of whether the whole container is selected for requisition by the customer. This allows a Requisition document number (original document number) to be generated for each item and provides visibility of each item to the customer.¹

3) When requisitions are sent to the DLA Disposition Services ICP², there will be an indicator on the 511R transaction that will notify EBS if the whole container was requisitioned; EBS can then verify that all requisitions for that container are received and processed.

4) A similar indicator is on the 940R release order which the DLA Disposition Services ICP sent to the field office at the time of issue. DSS can perform a similar check to validate that all transactions are received for the full container (if the full container indicator is checked on the 940R).

5) DSS will then send an 856S Shipment Status transaction to the customer but it will be by each DTID number and original document number, with reference to the Container ID.³

6) A transaction (846A) is required in the case where items are moved from one container to another whether it be based on DEMIL Code challenges, item being sent to scrap, or being re-marketed. Note that all Container ID changes will originate from the DLA Disposition Services Field Office since the containers are stored in the warehouse. The DLA Disposition Services ICP will never initiate a Container ID change.

b. Transactions, data elements, processing details in use today: This is new functionality that does not exist in DAISY today.

5. PROPOSED CHANGE(S):

a. Requested change in detail:

1) This change proposes the addition of the 'Container ID Change' functionality to DLMS 846A Asset Reclassification transaction. In order to maintain container synchronization between EBS and DSS, this proposed change will account for the removal or switching of an item from one container to another container. The Asset Reclassification transaction will identify the controlling document number generated by DSS, the DTID number as a secondary reference, and the existing Container ID number ('FROM' Container ID), as well as new Container ID number ('TO' Container ID--the new container for the item) when applicable. In the case of an item being removed from a container and not being placed in a new container, the 'TO' Container ID will not be cited in the transaction.

² Containerization will only occur with DLA Disposition Services ICP with Routing Identifier Code S9D.

³ Refer to PDC 450 (reference 3b).

2) Unit of Use. RBI has identified a requirement to communicate Container ID number change between EBS and DSS for 'unit of use' items when applicable. Accordingly, the existing 846A capability to identify 'unit of use' LSNs and the cross-reference NSN is being authorized for use by DLA Disposition Services by this change. Refer to the DS 846A Change Table, rows 2 and 6. RBI did not identify a requirement to use 846A to convert materiel from an NSN to a 'unit of use' LSN.

b. Proposed procedures:

1) This procedure will cover the processing of Container ID changes between DSS (the DLA Disposition Services Field Office) and EBS (the DLA Disposition Services ICP). When an item is removed from a container or switches containers, DSS will send EBS an 846A Asset Reclassification transaction for Container ID change so that EBS can make the appropriate update.

2) All containerized items will be passed to the RTD Web, via a direct connect between EBS and the RTD Web, so that the items can be marketed on their site as whole containers and requisitioned as individual items with the option of selecting the entire container.

c. DLMS Supplement (DS) 846A Change Table. Revise as shown to support RBI Container ID Change requirements:

RBI identified the following data requirements for Container ID Change: DTID number as a secondary reference; Material ID [already available at 2/LIN02/10/FS&SW]; FROM Container ID number; TO Container ID number

e. Alternatives: There are no other alternatives for this proposed process.

6. REASON FOR CHANGE: With the addition of DLA Disposition Services business processes into DSS and EBS, data elements and transaction information needs to be introduced in a DLMS transaction to provide accurate transfer of information between systems. The 846A transaction requires the addition of the Container ID Change functionality.

7. ADVANTAGES AND DISADVANTAGES:

a. Advantages: Container changes will allow DSS and EBS to keep items in sync. If there are ever container changes at DSS, then the 846A Asset Reclassification transaction will be sent to EBS to make the appropriate update.

b. Disadvantages: None identified.

8. NOTE ANY REGULATIONS OR GUIDANCE: (IF APPLICABLE): Requires DLA update the DOD 4000.25-M, DLMS, Volume 2 procedures. See impact paragraph below.

9. ESTIMATED TIME LINE/IMPLEMENTATION TARGET: Testing begins May 2011, and full implementation in October 2011.

10. IMPACT:

a. Publications:

- 1) Requires update to DLMS 846A Asset Reclassification transaction as noted.
- 2) Requires update to DOD 4000.25-M, DLMS, to add procedures for the DLA Disposition Services RBI business process for Container ID Change. The appropriate DLA office must provide procedures to DLA J627, through the DLA Supply PRC representative, for inclusion in the DLMS manual, Volume 2. RBI, DLA Disposition Services and DLA J33 must coordinate as needed to assure these procedures are written and submitted to DLA J627.

b. Automated Information Systems (AIS):

1) DLA: Impacts EBS and DSS.

2) Service AIS: The Services systems will not be impacted by this change.

DLA states that this change to the 846A transaction/process does not impact systems external to DLA. DLMS 846A Asset Reclassification for Container ID change will only be used between DLA Disposition Services Field Offices and DLA Disposition Services ICP (EBS to DSS interface only).

c. New DLMS 846A Data Elements: Requires addition of the following to DLMS 846A:

- DTID Number
- Container ID number – Original ('FROM')
- Container ID number – New ('TO')
